

Modern Mobility

Nowadays, just leaving the house in the morning requires packing up a gaggle of gadgets. Enter the Scott eVest, the newest design in e-wear. Concealed within this fully functional 15-pocket garment lies a conduit system that enables the wearer to connect (and conceal) wires to and from multiple electronic gadgets like cell phones, pagers, PDAs, CD/MP3 players and digital cameras. We predict that more designers will create such accommodating apparel, leaving hands free to ... well, we'll let each man decide that for himself.
